Mrs. Lucy Williams --- Morgan's Betrayer, BY AN ACQUEINTANCE.

Perhaps it would be pleasing to your readers to give a few facts conserning the creature that was bold and base enough to betray the chivalrous Morgan. He, who, instead of imitating their Butlers and Popes, has invariably shown woman, on whatever boundary he found her, that respectful defence due the modest chastity expected of our sex.

About ten years ago, Mr. Rumbough and family removed from Lynchburg, Va., to Green county, Tenn., where they have since resided. Lucy, the youngest daughwas then a good looking, romping girl, but forwardly inclined. As she grew, her faults increased in inverse ratio to her graces, and, at eighteen, little complimentary could be said of her beyond her mere personnel. With but little education, she posses ed that coll impu dence that was soon coverted into the sang froit of manner, which enabled her to enter society without betraying the hatter's daughter! She loved dancing and card playing, and was noted as a reckless

Some two or three years ago she married Joseph Williams, second son of the late Dr. Alexander Williams, so long and favorably known for his generous qualities of heart an ! hand. But his weak-minded son inherited little from his father, save his broad acres. He has been his coantry's enemy from the outset, and is now beyond the lines with his northern comrades. His wife has been assidiously waited upon by Yankee officers during his absence

Lucy Williams is now about twenty-two years old, tall and robust, with coars: but evenly developed features, with dark hair and grey eyes, and cheeks and lips that rival the rose's hue. Her step his none of that "airy tread" the poets love so to ascribe to our sex, but rings loud and clear like the heavy stride of man. Her youngest brother has been a captain in our service from the beginning of this war, but unlike his sister, is noted more for and perhaps shed a tear of sorrow over its ! little grave. Blessed babe! to be taken that large pieces of his skull were scattered from such a mother.

Doubtless, it was at the house of her (as friendly relations have existed for many years between her family and the Reedies, Mrs. Morgan's family) that the devoted Partisan lay him down to sleep. believing himself to by surrounded by Christian ladies, and feeling perfectly

What a heart must beat within her bos m, who under these circumstances, could wait until all were sound asleep, and then with stealthy eaution leave the house, seek the stable, and mounting the swiftest of the steeds, dash away into the gloomy forest, fast and still faster, until with breathless purpose, and jailed beast, she balts at the Yankee encampment, having ridden eighteen long, dark miles, to carry out ber diabolical scheme! Methinks I can hear the loud exclamations, of delight, and see the eager flashing of vengeful eyes as the shout of "to horses to horses," arises, "and the great Morgan is ours!" Then the wild ride back, the cold blooded slaughter of the pickets, the foul murder of the renowned hero, and her mission is accomplished.

So long as the proud name of Morgan shall live, so long shall be heard the execrable one of Lucy Williams, his murderess!

The North Carolina Indians. WABBSVI ... E, N. C., Sep. 27th, 1864.

To the Editors of the State Journal: As you have, more than once, had the liberality to notice in your valuable paper, some of the readers of the Journal, to latter, and their right to bear arms in ment of their adoption, agreeably to the laws and usages of civilized nations.

The Indians composing a part of the Legion, principally reside along the southin the Counties of Jackson, Macon and Cherokee, principally in the first mentionern base of the Iron or Smoky Mountain, ed county, adjacent to the "Hunting left-from the enemy's swooping lines; the for Grounds" reserved for the use of those mer with his squadron unquallingly dashed up Grounds" reserved for the use of those Indians by treaty stipulations requiesed in by the State of N. Carolina. The word Cherokee, a name by which the tribe is known, had its origin, very pro-bably, with the white settlers on this manly form to the earth. All that a few moments continent, as the name of those Indians are known by each other is You-we-bey, lives! Ah, such a spirit will live! He lives in which is construed to have reference to the color of the skin-"Red men." They have a tradition, with regard to the creation of man by the "Great Spirit," but instead of one Adam, their tradition has that falls." True, their gallant deeds are circuman Adam and Eve for each description scribed with the limits of their own company or of the human family. Their tradition, of their friends, and the tears of the few only like the account we have in the Bible, mingle. But when the peerless fall a nation represents that our first paren's were made out of the earth, and the difference of hollow hearts. But when truly known and truly color to have been the result of the dif appreciated by a lew, a true tribute is yielded. ferent kinds of clay used in the creation.

The Red Man is supposed to have be n formed of red. the white, of and white clay,

the black of black clay, &c.

OLD SERIES, } VOL. V.

The Indian tribes, long before the settlement of this country by the white, race, had, if their traditions be true; their wars between the Northern and Southern tribes, resembling to some extent, the present war between the South and Northern people. The Northern tribes, inhabiting portions of New York, sent out a War party along the A leghany range of mountains, nearly a thou and miles, on foot. They attacked and killed some of he Cher kees on the war path leading across the mountains between Cherokee and Valley river, in the county of Cherokee, N C. Rude piles of stones mark the places where they were beried. The Ch roke warrors, to revenge the dea h of their friends, followed the Indians to their homes in New York, and while they were celebra ing their victory, took ample revenge and satisfaction for their friends, and returned along the Allegany range of mountains to their bome. The en my followed as far as the Delaware river, crossed on a raft, but did not pursue any farther From this time, about the middie of the seventeenth century, before the white settlements had extended across the Alteghanies, the Northern tribes ceased to make raids on the Southern tribes, and a permanent peace was the result.

The present war amongst the white race, will likely terminate in the same way. When the Northern armies cease to war on the Southern people, the present war will end and be followed by a durable JUNALUSKE.

Death of Jno. II. Pachles.

We deeply regret to announce the death of John H. Peebles, Esq. of Kinston, which took place about 3 o'clock last Wednesday evening in one of the roms of his own house. His wife and children having gode out on a visit, there was no one at home but a servant girl and the deceased when the sad event

When Mrs. P. went out, she left her husband preparing to go off on a shooting excur-The servant girl states that he went out into the yard with the gun on his shoulder, but, suddenly returning, went into his room, when she instantly heard the report of the gun and the fall of the unfortunate manhis bland and affable manners, than for | She gave the alarm, but his neighbors, on his manly courage. But a short time entering the room, found that the lamented since she buried her babe, her only child, Peebles was no more. The top of his head was entirely blown off; and we are informed around the room.

On examining the gun, which was a donble barrel it was found that one of the barmother-in-law, Mrs. Alexander Williams | rels contained only a charge of powder, from which it is suggested, that he had pur both loads of shot into the same barrel, and that discovering his mistake, he was in the act of rectifying it when the drea!ful catastrophe appened.

The deceased was one of the most quright gentlemen of Lenoir county, was scrupulously correct in all his deportment, and his untimely fate will be universally lamented by all who knew him. He had long been one of the most porular and successful merchants of the flourishing note town in which he breath ed his last, and, by industry and perseverance, had accumulated a bandsome competency, if not a considerable fortune. He leaves a widow and four children to mour be death of one of the best of husbands and fathers and who have the tenderest sympathies of an extensive circle of friends and acquaintances in their unniterable bereavement; May God e m'ort them. -State Journal

In Memoriam.

Among the many fallen sons our patriotic old State has been called upon to mourn during the present sad era, another has been added to that ong list of devoted patriots whose sacred blood has gone to swell the flood that is to water the tree of our liberty; and it behooves the siddened heart of a courade in arms to drop a passing tri-bute to the name of Capt. LEWIS R. COOPER, of the 2nd N. C. Cavalry, who fell mortally wounded in the face of the enemy at White Oak Swamp, on the 5th of August, and lingered until the 9th ultimore, when his noble spirit left its mangled tenement with assurance bright that it hed gone to that land of eternal rest,

"With ransomed spirits to soar On wings of faith and love, To meet the Saviour they adore,

And reign with Him above." At the first bugle sound he left the peaceful pursuits of lite, to which, from his quiet and reserved disposition, he was devotedly attached, and donned the garb of the field and discharged his the services rendered by a command duties as an officer, soldier and gentleman upon known as "Thomas' Legion," composed the most strictly conscientious scruples up to be date of his untimely fa l. Noble, generous and principally of Mountaineers and Cuerokee brave to a fault. Among the many hard tought Indians, it may not be uninteresting to fields, in which his old veteran regiment has so signally earned for itself a glorious name high upon the wilitary records of our country, he was know something of the history of the truly a hero in them all. Ever in the thickest of the fight, coolly and bravely leading his men on, asking no higher ambition than the "plain pa-defence of their homes and the Governtriot's sword to wear." His last fight was a glorious one. One of the hottest days of August, heated by the impetuous and successful charges of our troops-saw the enemy's cavalry besten and driven back for several miles upon a heavy infantry support. Still his gallant Colonel, with his regiment alone, stubunder this heavy fire to a point impracticable to use the horse, dismounted and was dashing his men forward with his usual impetuosity against the serried ranks of the opposing lines; here the fatal messenger of that awful storm, that no hubefore was life, fire and energy, was borne off mangled on a stretcher to rise no more. But he the memory of his devoted men. His noble ex-ample is left behind. The heaving bosoms and saddened hearts of his war worn men attest the fact that it will ever be imitated on vet untried fields. The world is apt, under such chroumregiment, and appreciated by the narrow circle weeps; but how oft is the pure stream of gratitude corrupted by the unhailowed contribution of

You gave him to his country, and as servants of our rectious country, with you we mingle our tears and sympathies, and would join you in an above expressed senti-ment, that as a hero his noble spirit has gone up from the battlefield for buman liberty, washed as we trust in the blood of him who died for the spiritual liberty of mankind.

Executive Department, N. C., ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE. Raleigh, Oct. 4th, 1864.

No. 24.

NECESSITY having arisen for calling a part A of the Guard for Home Defence into the field to repel a threatened invasion, to avoid interfering as far as possible with the industrial pursuits of the country, it is ordered that the commanding officers of the Guard for Home Defence in the counties of Surry, Yadkin, Rowan, Cabarrus, Mecklenburg, Lincoln, Gaston and Cleaveland, and of all the counties lying east of said counties, will assemble their respective Regiments or Battalions without delay, and proceed to divi e them into three equal parts, to be known as the 1st, 2d, and 3d classes—these numbers to be determined by lot or draft, and the classes called out in rotation, when less than the whole are required for field service.

Commanders of Battalions will exclude from the 1st class all persons physically incapable of performing field service, and they will be careful not to include in either class persons not strictly mem ere of the tinard for Home Defence.

When there are less than three companies in a Battalion, they will be united and divided into three equal parts, and a complement of officers assigned to each. When there are three, six or nine companies in a Battalion, they will be equal ized in nonbers by transfers from one company to the other, and when the number of companies is not devisible by three, then it must be made so by breaking up the odd companies and assigning their members to the other companies. The company or companies to be broken up to be deter-Assoon as each commander has complied with the foregoing instructions, he will arm and equipthe 1st class of his Battation and order it to proreed without delay to Goldsboro', and report to Brig. Gen. C. Leventhorpe, who, as the troops arrive, will organize them into Regiments.

The Guard for Home Defence belonging to counties lying west of those above enumerated: are designed for the defence of the Monatain District. Their organization will not be changed for the present.

PLANTATION FOR SALE. OFFER FOR SALE my Plantation in Rowan county, lying seven wiles West of Salisbury, . four miles of China Grove Depot, on the N. C. Railroad. It embraces eight bundred and fortyseven acres, about four hundred of which are cleared, the balance in forest, hearily timbered with oak and hickory; has an ordinary dwelling house, good negro houses, and all necessary outbuildings, also, a well of most excellent water .-These lands are fertile and particularly adapted to wheat, oats and clover, and hence might be made a very choice stock farm; corn and fodder have also been grown to advantage. I would . also sell with it six or eight good mules, two mag-nificent brood mares, with celts; also the stock.

of cattle, sheep, hogs, &c, and all the farming implements, consisting of a wagon, carts, and other farming utensils. Any one desiring to purchase may examine the premises on application to Mr. Blair H. Ernes; on . the farm, who will show it, and the lines around . it. Terms will be made perfectly easy to the purchaser. Address,

The Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel, of date October 2nd, comes to us with the expected letter of Vice President Stephens, and the comments of that jurnal on the recent exposition from Gov. J. Brown in reference to the "personal conresies" lately "pro--posed to be extended" to him by the Yanlee commander. Sherman.

The letter of Mr. Steehens, V. P., does not fulfill the expectations which had been raised of its contents. It is not " an out and out" appoundement in favor of peace on the basis of reconstruction. Whatever Mr. Stephens may have said in his wanderings, when he passed out of Georgia into South Carolina, on the late advance of Sherman: however he may have regaled his listeners. awhether hosts or visitors with "out and out" arguments in favor of reconstruction-of going back into the Union with our enemiesof accepting guarantees from the faithless and perficient foe who has, and continues day by day to violate all obligations of truth, bonor and decency-of again placing our hopes and destinies under cover of a flig desecrated by inhuman atrocities, and degraded by dishonest cheats; however, we say, Mr. Stophens may in his private walk and conversation justify the suspicions which honest men entertain of him, that his secret and hidden purpose is to bring about this disreputable termination of our noble struzgle-this Vice President of the Confederacy has at least forborne to shock the public sense by stamping such igno sinious persuasion, "line upon line and precept upon precept," in his public letter. It is true there is " here a little and there a little " of this base intention; but it is ulterior and veiled : the "skin of the Copella is eked out with that of the fox." Vice President Stephens has not put his finger into the fire. If + leaves this test of heat to be tried by other paws. If any body is burnt, he does not mean that it shall be he.

It occurs at once to every one who has discernment to discover the right, that letter writing, to persons avowedly for publication in the press of the country, is not the preper occupation for the Vice President of the nation. Hannibal Hamlin, though he is said to be in part a free nigger, has set a better example on this score than his worthy contemporary on our side of the line. He confines himself to making speeches, the reports of which he may father or disinherit according as they pass the ordeal of the public opinion; and he has used the wise precaution, even in these, of encouraging and aiding the cause he secondarily represents. But our Vice President both speaks and writes : and in both cases takes care that he shall be the herald of his ewn opinion, for both are put to the public by his authority; and it has been his misfertune or his fault ,(we think both) that his doctrines and words command neither the approval of those who are his superiors in the government, nor the confidence of the large majority of those who elevated him to his present position. In other words -all he has said and-done, has militated against the operations of the government-against the establishment of that hopeful and confident spirit which it should have been his pleasure to inspire, and against the true interests of the nation, which it should have been his pride to advance.

It will be read of Mr. Stephens in history, that though he was called with extraordinary unanimity to be the presiding officer of the Confederate Senate, and ex-officio to the Presidency of the nation, were calamity to befall its chief magistrate, (which God in his merey forefend,) he was found rarely at his place. He left his duties to the performance of others, and he himself remained out of reach .-In the most dread times, when the capital of the nation has been the most sorely beleaguered, when the graceful maidens and noble matrons of Richmond sat down day by day to he homely fare of a stinted board within the ound of the explosions of hostile, missiles, and retired by night under the reverberations of booming cannon; when Congress and his fellow-Senators debated almost in hearing of the keen crack of the rifle, and in sight of the glitter of the bayonets. Mr. Stephens was not in his scat. The nearest that he was known, for the year past, to be to Richmond, was his reputed arrival at Danville, during the last session, whence he returned to his home during the period of one of Virginia's severest ordeals. Without doubt, fit explanation will be made to clear his skirts of actual dereliction: but the explanation will only serve to excuse-it will confer no honors.

Clay, and Calboun, and Webster, indeed died in the harness. They were fortunate in being so far masters of physical suffering that they stood to the last-holding the post of duty as faithful soldiers, even when the demand was scarce imperative. And it was a feature of the death of the two former, that tune of Mr. Stephens that his Illues should have resulted in death, his culogist would have lacked this point in prenouncing his virtues.

We have done no more to day, than note the appearance of this ill-timed letter, and in connection therewith to comment on the part berne by this functionary in the national affairs. He has done little good. Whatever he was capable of, has been concealed. What he has done, does more harm and throws more impediments in the way of our success, we fear, than he has the ability to counterba'ance, if he were to begin from this time out faithfully to attend to his duties.

For the Confederate. The attention of the inhabitants of lialeigh is called to the situation of the newly arrived wounded soldiers, who are now crowding our Hospitals. They are just from the trenches round Petersburg -- worn out and disabled with fighting and working in our cause. Should we let them lie here before our very eyes, and suffer for the want of those kind cares which our fathers, brothers or husbands would receive, were they in the places of these soldiers ?

The Hospitals are filled to overflowingevery available space is occupied. The Ladies of the Relief Society, true to their mission, are there each day, tending and providing for the poor fellows as far as their means go; but these are limited, and the labor of a few ladies is not by any means sufficient to attend te so large a nuraber. We therefere call upon the ladies of Raleigh, promiscuously, to send nourishment to these sufferers, and likewise to go themselves and inquire into their wants and see that all are properly cared for.

Humanity demands that they shouldchristian charity requires it; a proper pride in the reputation of our town urges it. The Relief Society will gladly be the instrument through which much charity can be dispensed. as its supplies are totally inadequate to the demands it meets; but at the same time, aid is wanting both to distribute as well as provide food for the wounded and sick. A MATRON.

the 1st instant. YELLOW FEVER:—The yellow fever is bad at Charleston. It is also at Savannah, Jacksonville and St. Augustine. It is not among our troops.

We have no later dates from Richmond and Petersburg than Wednesday last, and from them we glean the tellowing summary :

The intelligence yesterday from all points at a distance from the city was cheering .-We give a brief sketch of the situation : THE YANKEES DEVEATED IN SCUTTWESTERN

The advance into Southwestern Virginia by the enemy was made in two columns.— One came from Tennessee towards Bristot, and consisted of four regiments (two white and two negra), under the command of Acting Brigadier General Carter, a notorious Tennessee renegade. The other came from Kentucky, through Cumberland gap, and numbered eight thousand men, under General Burbridge. They were to form a junction in Tazewell county, and then move on Saltville. On Friday, however, before getting to the Virginia line, Carter was attacked by General Vaughan four miles from Carter station, on the East Tennessee and Virgicia railroad, driven to the station, and there routed. The column of General Burbridge halted at Richland, in Russell county, Virginia, on Friday and there waited the arrival of Carter. As he did not, for the best of reasons, arrive, Burbridge moved forward on Saltville, after previously starting a raiding party of five hundred cavalry to go around to Wytheville and cut the Virginia and Tennessee railroad at that point. He arrived at Saltville on Sunday, and at noon assaulted our works about three miles from the town. The assault was bloodily repulsed, and, after a brief interval, was renewed with a still more disastrous repulse. He then retired at night. leaving about seven hundred killed and wounded in our hands. Our less was fifteen killed and seventy wounded. The following official dispatch from General Echols was received at General Kemper's office yesterday. "SALTVILLE, Oct. 3 1864.

' To Major General Kemper : "We whipped the enemy badly here veserday, and he has retired in confusion, leaving his dead and wounded in our handsamong them a brigadier general and a good many officers. There were two or three regiments of negro troops, which were badly cut up. The reserves and detailed men act ed splendidly. The en my's force was about six thousand; as near as we could estimate. We are in bot oursuit

JOHN ECHOLS, Brigadier General." The following is the dispatch of General Lee to the War Department : "HEAD'QES ARMY NORTHERN VIRGINIA, ) "October 4, 1864.

. Hon. Secretary of War : "General Breckinridge reports that the enemy attacked Saltville on the 2d instant and received a bloody repulse. "They retired during the night in great confusion, apparently in the direction of Sandy river, leaving most of their dead and wounded in our hands. " He is pursuing them. "All of our troops behaved well.

south from Richmond.

"R. E. LEE." The party which started for Wytheville got as far as Tazewell Courthouse, and have not been heard from since. The defeat of Burbridge, coupled with the failure of Sheridan to reach - Lynchburg, are two disasters which will make a marked change in Grant's plans. Had Sheridan reached Lyuchburg, and Saltville been captured, the Virginia and Tennessee railroad would have constituted a line of communication for getting supplies through Cumberland gap, which would have been most advantageous to the enemy, and which would have greatly faciliated the grand plan of flanking General Lee, by way of the south side, and cutting the roads leading

THE ADVANCE OF GEN. PRICE INTO MISSOURI. If General Price continues his march upon St. Louis with the rapidity which has already characterized his movements, the city will fall into his hands. There are three railroads running out of the city, and all three have been cut. The most important, the North and Missouri, by which the city could receive reinfercements, was cut at Centralia by our cavalry on the 28th, and two passenger trains captured. On these trains were a score of soldiers, whom the trightened passengers that escaped and returned to the city reported, as usual, had been murdered. The Pacific Missouri road was cut at Osage on the same day: and upon the St Louis and Iron Mountain railroad General Price him-elf is advancing. On the 29th his cavalry was at De Soto station, twenty-four miles from St. Louis, and his army was at Potosi station, ten miles this side. The "citizens" were hurrying into the town for protection. General Rosecrans has no regular troops to defend St. Louis with, and its capture will be easy if no time is given him to receive reinforcements by way of the river. The Yankees have already started twelve steamers to him from Memphis, laden with troops. General A. J. Smith, when Forrest has thrashed so badly, is in command of the cavalry in Missouri, and is " watching'

Price's movements MOVEMENTS OF GENERAL FORREST. General Forrest is still having his own way in Tennessee. General Rousseau, who was sent out from Nashville by the Yankees to catch him, had a fight with him at Pulaski, and is now represented by the enemy's account as slowly retreating towards Nashville; and Forrest has turned off to the left towards Fayetteville, the terminus of a branch road from Dechard. This is the route to Memphis; and the ubiquitous Forrest may next turn up there, especially as the garrison has gone to relieve Rosecraus at St. Louis. His men are tearing up the road and burning the treatie-work as they go. They captured two frains at Big Shanty on the 27th. Dispatches from Nashville say that both reads going south from there (forming Sherman's line of communication) are cut and there is no longer telegraphic communication with Sperman.

FROM GENEBAL EARLY.

An official dispatch, received at the War Department from General Early, reports the enemy north of North river, his cavalry occupying the north bank of that stream, his infantry being near Harrisonburg. After slight skirmisbing, the enemy's cavalry fell back from Mount Crawford. Mount Crawford is in Rockingham county, just north of North river. It is about sixteen miles the other side of Staunton and eight miles this side of Harriconburg.

THE BAID IN NORTHERN VIRGINIA.

The raiding party mentioned yestorday as the day before at Ruskeli's Hill, fifteen miles from Gordonsville, has returned without attempting a raid. On the Central road, official dispatches at the War Department report a small force of the enemy's cavalry and some infantry in Culpeper county, who are engaged in rebuilding the bridge at Rappahanneck station.

Yesterday all was quiet. The busily engaged in strengthening the works they held on Monday. There were several rumors in town during the day of advances in force, &c., on the part of the Yankees, but none of them proved correct. In our report of the defence of Fort Gilmer, it should have been stated that the Louisiana Guard Artillery was the battery which so successfully repelled the enemy's assaults.

At Petersburg all was quiet.

GEN. HOOD'S POSITION.

It was stated positively yesterday, in some army directly in Sherman's rear, though the exact locality it is not prudent to state.

TWO DAYS LATER FROM THE NORTH. We have received full files of Northern papers to the 2d inst., from which we make some interesting extracts :

FROM GRANT'S ARMY. We have stirring news from the James river. General Grant reports that vesterday morning two army corps, commanded by Generals Ord and Birmy, respectively, crossed the James river at Deep Bottom. Ord's corps succeeded in carrying the field works and entrenchments below Chaffin's farm, capturing at the same time some fifteen pieces of artillery and from two to three hundred prisoners. Simultaneously with this movement, Birney advanced by the New Market road and carried the entrenchments in that quarter. The Confederates defending this outer line were driven back, losing but few prisoners.

PROM SHERIDAN.

The cavalry advance of Sheridan's army entered Saunton on Monday morning last. The main body of Sheridan's command were at Waynesboro' on the same day, where, it was supposed, they were engaged in destroying the railway track between Christian creek and Staupton. No direct information from Sheridan has been received at the War Department for several days past, all the couriers sent by him down the Valley having been captured by the guerrillas, who, according to Secretary Staunton, infest the country in Sheridan's rear.

AFFAIRS IN MISSOURI-THE FEDERALS IN A CRITICAL CONDITION.

The Federal troops occupying Pilot Knob, Missouri, under General Ewing, were, on Wednesday last, in a critical situation. Ewing had been previously ordered to withdraw his forces, but his communications were cut before he could get away. The Confederates had succeeded in planting a battery on Sheppard's Mount, which commands Ewing's position, and were throwing shells into the fort, which inflicted, as we are told, some injury to the garrison. The Federal post at Mineral Point was also attacked on Tuesday night. The commandant, Colonel Mills, is said to have repulsed the enemy; but it is also stated that he subsequently abandoned the place and retreated to De Soto On the same evening the town of Potosi was captured by the Confederates. The headquarters of General A. J. Smith have been established at De Soto, where reinforcements were being sent to him. About eighteen thousand Missouri militia are reported to be under arms. together with a number of independent companies. Ail, or nearly all, of these, however, will most probably be retained for the defence

THE DOINGS OF FORREST.

From Tennessee we learn that a desperate battle for the possession of Putaski was supposed to have occurred on Wednesday last; but later dispatches assert that Forrest withdrew his forces during the night, and marched in the direction of the Chattanooga railroad. He has so effectually damaged the Tennessee and Alabama railroad that it will require several weeks to repair it: General Rousseau estimates Forrest's losses, in killed, wounded and prisoners, in the skirmishesnear Pulaski, at two hundred men, but is entirely silent as regards his own casualties.

PEACE PROPOSITIONS DENIED. .

We are informed, by a telegram from Washington, that after careful inquiry it cannot be ascertained that any importance is attached, in official circles, to the rumored peace propositions from Georgia, The denial is mildly stated, but when done into plain English it means that all the stories relating to peace negotiations in Georgia are false. FARRAGUT-ATTACK ON MOBILE ABANDONED.

Admiral Farragut is about to be transferred to the command of the North Atlantic Blockading Squadron, and Admiral Lee is to succeed Farragut in command of the fleet in Mobile bay. From these changes, we infer that the attack on Mobile is to be abandoned -at least for the present.

LATER FROM MISSOURI. The New York Herald of the 1st contains the following dispatch ::

ST. Louis, September 30 .- The rebels were driven back at Pilot Knob with greatslaughter and forced to retreat.

One brigade of General Smith's forces is now stationed at Wetemco bridge, a few miles below Jefferson barracks, the remainder of his command being at the latter place. Nothing is know a this morning of the whereabouts or movements of the enemy.

The mail agent of the Southwest Branch railroad arrived to night. He reports that General Ewing reached Harrison's station about 10 o'clock last night, closely pursued by the enemy. Fighting has been going on, but the result is unknown. The road is cut this side of Harrison, and the towns of Caba and Bourbon are burning, Harrison being between these two towns. The supposition is that the road-is cut both sides of that point, severing communication with both St. Louis and Rolla.

Escaped prisoners who arrived at De Soto to-day report that Pilot Knob is still held by the rebels, but their numbers and probable povemests are not known.

It is understood that a portion of General Smith's force starts for Franklin, the intersection of the Pacific and Southwest branch roads, forty miles west of here, to-night.

FROM THE VALLEY.

The movements of Sheridan will now depend very much upon those of Early, who, it appears, is once more out in the Valley confronting him. The Lynchburg Republican learns from the passengers on the Orange cars, we learn, that the Valley, in the direc-tion of Harrisonburg and below, was lighted up with fires on Thursday night. No explanation of the cause of these conflagrations had been received at Waynesboro' yesterday The Yankees are again running trains on the morning, but it was feared the enemy were road to Rappahaencck station.

Our cavalry are said to us hovering on Sheridan's rear, and the infantry were at last accounts moving to the front. Sheridan will have no peace in his just back to the Poto mae until he is run into his bole at Harper's Ferry. We think we may now safely congratulate our readers that the second On to Lyuchburg" has come to grief, and for this consummation there can be no doubt that we are under lasting indebtedness to the consummate skill and generalship of Lieutenant General Eurly. To him, then, let all honor be

AND THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY O

The Lynchburg Virginian says "it was rerest bad captured Shelbyville, Tenn. This report is not at all improbable, as Forrest was at last accounts within fifty miles of the place. Sherby ville is in Bedford county, Tennessee, and on the direct line of railway from Nashville to Chattanooga; and the Decatur branch being already broken up, Sherman must evidently be in that situation which old 'Fuss and Feathers' used to call the most uncomfortable that a military man could be placed in, viz: "A fire in the rear:" It is easy to perseive that when this report riginated, it may have been simply an anticipation; but it started in Tennessee, within the lines of the enemy, coming East and into our lines. The ficial news of the defeat of Rousseau and his retreat into Pulaski is evidence, from our own sources, strongly circumstantial in favor of its truth. Shelbyville is situated on a branch of the Nashville Railroad, a few miles below Wartrace, and within two orthree miles of the Nashville 10. Itself. He will doubtless strike the road, if he has not already done so, at Wartrace, and then-we shall only look out for something else of the same sort.

FROM FORREST-MORE GLORIOUS NEWS.

The brilliant vigor with which Forrest is performing his work in the rear of Sherman. the rapid succession of glorious announc ments, telling us that he is striking the enemy, now here, now there, comes to us in such ringing peals that encouragement accuminlates, and gradually our recent mishaps are becoming lost in the crowding hopes that the pleasant tiding stir and start within us. The war eagle has struck another blow-drives the enemy's cavalry from Decatur, Alabama, into the town of Pulaski, on the Decatur and Columbia (Tennessee,) railroad, in Giles county, Tennessee, capturing a large number of prisoners, and opening a path to the great line of Sherman's communications-the Nashville and North Alabama railroad. Rousseau is cooped up in Pulaski, which is strongly fortified. Whether Forrest has attacked him there, remains to be seen. Perhaps it is hardly worth the risk. He has only to go over to Shelbyville to strike the last mentioned road-perhaps he is there.

RELEASE OF OUR PRISONERS AT CAMP CHASE.

Passengers from the front of our army in East Tennessee, who arrived in Bristol, Wednesday night, informed the Gazette that a copy of Brownlow's paper, of Saturday last, the 24th September, " had been taken by our scouts, in which it is said that the Copper heads o' Ohio, had released our prisoners at Comp Chase, 8,500 in number, and armed them, and that gr at excitement prevailed throughout Onio on account thereof." guns including two ten pounder Parrett's.

The version of this affair as given by other Yankee papers is, that the prisoners overpowered the guard and thus escaped. It would not surprise us much, however, if Brownlew, liar as he is, does not give the true account.

From the Petersburg Express of Wednesday. From the Petersburg Front.

We have no charge to note in the position of affairs around Petersburg this morning .-Yesterday was a day of extreme quiet, and in contrast with the last few preceding days, was scarcely marked by the discharge of a cannon. Since his exploit of last week, where advantage was taken of the situation, to which all eyes were directed, on the north side of the James river, to strike a blow west of the Weldon railroad, the enemy have remained inactive, except to strengthen his newly gained position. He has been busily employed in fortifying this vartage ground front and rear. and until he has done this satisfactorily, we venture to assert he will show no disposition to again advance

The right of the enemy's flanking column rests on Chappell's farm, about four miles from the city, and his line of battle runs thence through, Mr. Oscar Pegram's plantation to Indian Mown Run, whence it strikes back almost at an acute angle to the breastworks on Peebles' place recently captured from our forces. At every point on this line the Yankees are heavily fortifying. The position of our forces, it is of course imprudent to state, but they are so arranged as to give the enemy a warm reception when and wherever he may choose to sally forth. On the rest of the lines south of the Appo-matiox river, nothing of interest transpired yesterday. Even the usual picket firing ceased, and no cannonading occurred. Soldiers from the trenches speak of the day, as one of the quietest they have passed for weeks. It is stated on good authority that Grant's lines between the two extreme points of interest

-his right and left-are very weak. He has drawn strongly from them to reinforce either extremity, and defends them with a thin line of skirmishers, and field artillery. Advices from Prince George represent that many of the houses of citizens there have been stripped by the Yankees, and the crtizens themselves brought to an extreme degree of suffering in many instances. We have heard these reports again and again, and each arrival from his lines but corroborates them. Grant's army will soon go into winter quarters, and the timbers and weather boarding of private dwellings are used to construct them. Regarding the question of Grant's re-inforcements, we do not believe that he is receiving more men than he is losing. If we take into consideration the number of desertions from his army, the large number being constantly sent to the hespitale, and the men whose terms of service are daily expiring, and who are returning home, we may fairly presume that the ar rivals are counterbalanced by the departures from the army.

From Missouri.

MOBILE, Oct. 7 -A special despatch to the Advertisor, dated Senatobia the 6th, says the Chicago Times of the 3d and Memphis papers of the 4th, say the Confederates made a desperata assault on Pilot Knob and were repulsed with a loss of fifteen hundred, including Gon. Cabell ... The Federals evacuated since the 28th, spiking guns, and firing the railroad depot. The Confederates captured three guns, Ewing's train of forty wagons and an escort, burning the Iron works and all the Government buildings, and it is supposed made a complete smash of that drafting apparatus and records. Valley Mountain is literally covered with Rebels.

Latter reports say Price overtook Ewing and badly used him up at Harrison's station. The Yankees evacuated Potrse, Mineral Point and Desoto. The entire country below Kentinada bridge is evacuated. A.
